RAHWAY MONOPOLIES.

Since it has become the fashion to rail at "bloated monopolies," and the Canadian Pachic Baltarys has become the butt of newspopers and political demapages, we suppose it will hardly be a pepular think onneed the old Scotch lady, after a critical and patient heraing of a powerful and eloquent sermon, to give even "the Devil his due." Yet with that apirit of fair play, which camed the old Scotch lady, after a critical and patient heraing of a powerful and eloquent sermon, to complain that 'the was hairligh fair, that the tits was hairligh fair, that the tits was hairligh fair, that the people of the North-West should not overlook what the "syndicate" has done for them, in their re-entiment at the petty grievance which are inseparable from the first the people of the North-West should not overlook what the "syndicate" has done for them, in their re-entiment at the petty grievance which are inseparable from the first these states of freight are still high, but it is equally true that these high rates have been mainly due to the Minnesota road, that there has seen a steady decrease in charge, and that itses of freight are still high, but it is equally true that these high rates have been mainly due to the Minnesota road, that there has seen a steady decrease in charge, and that the Gabit that the Gabit that the perfect of caterpries, the manufacture of the public, and to seek as little as the total contains the containst that the Gabit that the read, to enterprise, the manufacture of the public, and to seek as little as the total containst the read, to enterprise the deal of the appear and large railway ortporations. AN THOSTLE OF HARD TIMES, eatly in dayair at finding its political an inactial theories uport in error case by the prossic, but indeputable, logic of facts an experience, and fidding that the day is pay in Canada when the reputation of public mer can be distroyed by systematic disfunction, has resorted back to a time-honored weapon, which we had hoped had become too rusty for use, in the attempt to arouse distrust of the Coverment policy—that of depreciating the public credit, and seeking to create a financial punite. It is almost incredible, in the smiling feat of the public or the service of the public or the service of the public or day and the service of the public or day are the service of the service of the service which is reflected in the service of uncertainty which is reflected in the ly spoigetion—that is it he ever makes another."

The object of these trekless and wicked statements is only too apparent. If the Olobe had not a sinster motive, if its willingment to ascribe the interests of the country to partition advantage were not so well known and so universally recognized, we should be tempted to ascribe the above extracts to sheer lunnery. But the simple fat is that the Globe is seeking to bring about extate of panie in financial mattern, which it may use as a weapon against the Government which it regards with so much malignity for means of three offsets of these offsets of gloony forebox
